Sun doesn't stop attendance at "I Love Pahokee Day"

Tammy Jackson

The hot sun wasn't enough to keep Glades-area citizens away from a day of fun and history-making in Pahokee last Saturday. During the I Love Pahokee Day festivities, State Rep. Addie L. Greene officially opened her district office in the Pahokee Chamber of Commerce.

The day included a blessing of the fleet and a barbecue. U.S. Sugar, Inc. prepared the barbecue under the direction of Juel Everett. Dixie Fried Chicken donated beans, slaw and drinks.

Atop the dike that overlooks Lake Okeechobee, Pahokee Chamber President Steve Baumgartner stood before the crowd in attendance and proclaimed he was proud to be a Pahokee resident.

Pahokee Mayor Ramon Horta said he was happy to attend another I Love Pahokee Day. He said he was extremely happy that Rep. Greene chose Pahokee as the site for her district office.

Speaking to the crowd, Rep. Greene said, "There is no reason why Pahokee couldn't be like the other cities along the coast." As she looked over the dike, she said, "This view is so great, why can't ferries cruise through Pahokee as they do in bigger cities?"

Rep. Greene attributed much of her success of the opening of the district office to Mayor Horta. She said the mayor rallied and supported her in her endeavor to open an office in the Glades. She said she spoke with the mayor and mentioned to him that she was interested in opening an office in Belle Glade or Pahokee. "The mayor said stop, we'll open it in Pahokee," said Rep. Greene.

The management in the Pahokee office will be under the direction of Executive Secretary Diane L. Walker. She said, "The office is open to assist all of her (Rep. Greene's) constituents with any problems they may have."

Rep. Greene's district office is open, Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday the office is open from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Rep. Greene's district includes Belle Glade, West Palm Beach, South Bay, Mangonia Park, Lake Park, Pahokee and Riviera Beach.

NAACP vows to help troubled youths

In the aftermath of last

Wednesday's tragedy with the death of Lake Shore Middle Schools student Jacqueline Lane, the Glades Area NAACP launched three new initiatives to produce solid adult intervention in the problems of troubled teens.

"Someone Cares . . ." bookmarks, containing the numbers of adult volunteers willing to counsel children, were available for school distribution on Friday.

"We had to act fast," said NAACP Branch President Larry Konchellah. "There may be other children with problems that aren't talking to people and trying to resolve them."

"What children need to know is that someone cares. And when they have a problem, someone is there to talk to," Mr. Konchellah said. "That young lady was troubled, and maybe if she couldn't resolve her difficulties inside her household, there could have been someone from the community who might have made a difference."

On the bookmark, which will be offered to all area schools, are 15 names of individuals who can be reached by telephone from early in the morning until midnight. "This tragedy has been our wake-up call," Mr. Konchellah said. "We have to move to help our children."

The next regular meeting of the NAACP will be April 7. The public is invited to help with these and other community service initiatives.

Honor student's death is shocking

Tammy Jackson
Staff Reporter

A Lake Shore Middle School student was found hanged in a shed off Airport Road. The death of the 14-year-old honor student came as a shock to many of Jacqueline Lane's teachers, friends and the community. Jacqueline's body was found Wednesday, March 23, a week after she was crowned Miss Afro Arts, a Black heritage pageant.

According to Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department reports, two juveniles were riding their bikes enroute to fish in a nearby canal when they observed a young female hanging from one of the rafters. Preliminary investigations revealed the youth had become depressed over family matters.

Bessie Jones, Jacqueline's mother, said, "I hope this publishing her daughter's name would serve to help others."

Although, her mother said Jacqueline didn't show any signs of suicide, she had given away some of her personal belongings and she had turned in her cheerleading uniform early. "We were close," her mother said.

Mrs. Edwards said, "We are just trying to keep the children strong."

Tangela Marshall, 13, and a cheerleader with Jacqueline said, "Everyone is sad, they miss Jackie. Everyone was crying and the counselors couldn't see everyone."

"Her death is painful," said Deangelo Pompey, 14. He said some of the students still aren't facing the reality that Jacqueline is dead. He said they're trying to hide their hurt. "She was a smart girl," Deangelo said.

Richard Ramsey, principal at Lake Shore Middle School, said, "There is so much disbelief and hurt at the school. She was a popular and talented student and it (the death) is very difficult to swallow."

Mr. Ramsey said Jacqueline showed no signs of any problems.

The day following the death of the LSMS student, students wanted to share some of their memories of their classmate with the entire school. Mr. Ramsey allowed the students to read poems over the school's public address system.

Counselors and school board psychiatrists were available to talk with those students having difficulty dealing with Jacqueline's death. Cora Edwards, LSMS guidance counselor, said the kids are still asking questions. Although many students came for counseling at their will, Mrs. Edwards said the teachers looked for signs of depression in the students and sent those students for counseling as well.

Mrs. Edwards said, "We are just trying to keep the children strong."

Tangela Marshall, 13, and a cheerleader with Jacqueline said, "Everyone is sad, they miss Jackie. Everyone was crying and the counselors couldn't see everyone."

"How could she do it? Why would she do it? She was the girl that her less accomplished peers looked up to. She was the ray of hope that shone for others."

The sad story of Miss Lane has caused many parents and educators to wonder how

Patients at HRS find eating right has rewards

Blue ribbons were awarded to eight adult medical patients who have shown exceptional efforts to improve their health status by dietary compliance, weight loss, blood sugar control, and keeping appointments.

Each patient's recent accomplishments were noted as they accepted their ribbons. For example, one gentleman has lost 21 pounds and has attended 22 diabetes classes and nutrition consultations. The staff said he even writes down the recipes given in class on his lunch sack.

The patients were praised for their blood glucose control. One woman has gone from blood sugar levels of over 500 to under 100 the past few months. She has shown so much improvement that insulin injections and oral medicine have been completely discontinued.

The award ceremony was organized by the Nutritionist Donna Ward, a registered dietitian and a licensed dietitian, in conjunction with National Nutrition Month.

Ribbons and gifts were presented to each patient by the medical staff doctors, physician assistants, nurses, health support aides, and nutritionists.

Mary Lou Powers of Volunteer Services served fruit gift baskets for each participant. Dr. Kimberly Stein and Dr. Alliax Philogene were guest speakers and they expressed their pride and respect for these patients.

The warning signs of suicide

future tragedies could be prevented. I can not personally supply the answers that would explain why Ms. Lane did what she did. I can however, talk about youth in general.

Suicide is one of the leading causes of death among young people in America. Suicidal youth usually feel trapped in some way in their lives.

They can feel depressed, hopeless or helpless to change what they feel are unbearable burdens.

A suicidal teen can be a loner with few friends, or a popular child who feels he or she can't handle the pressure to maintain their status or success in the future. Some teens who engage in very risky behavior (unprotected sex, car racing, jumping off high places, following dangerous "dares", etc.) may in fact be indirectly exhibiting suicidal tendencies, even if they do not explicitly say they want to die.

Unfortunately, if a teen is successful in killing him or herself - then it is too late to intervene.

Many parents have recently come to me and wondered how suicide can be prevented. If you are sensitized to certain signs in your child, you can make a great effort towards understanding and supporting your child, before their feelings of hopelessness escalate.

Warning signs that a child might be contemplating suicide

1. A previous suicide attempt - Someone who has tried it before is more likely than others to try it again.

2. Depression - Change in eating or sleeping habits, fatigue or loss of interest in usually pleasurable activities are symptoms to be concerned about.

3. Verbal threats - Take it seriously when a child says things like "I'd be better off dead!"

4. Changes in usual behavior patterns - in school or at home. If a child suddenly changes their typical ways of dealing with others - deep problems may be occurring.

5. Fascination with death themes - One patient I knew who later killed himself kept talking about how he believed in reincarnation. Similarly you should intervene with a child who expresses inordinate interest in Satanism, Heaven and Hell, skull symbols, etc.

6. Substance abuse - is obviously dangerous for many reasons.

THE SUN - Thursday, March 31, 1994 - 3

7. Unusual purchases - Be wary if a child buys a weapon, rope, or other potentially suspicious items.

8. Sudden happiness - If a child appears happy and can't explain why after months of depression - watch out! he or she may be happy because they have decided to commit suicide.

9. Giving away possessions - Someone who has decided to kill him or herself will give away favorite possessions that they feel they will not need after they kill themselves.

10. Dramatic changes - in any aspect of your child's life (physical health, mood, hobbies, friends, etc.) are a caution to be concerned that something is going on.

What to do if you are concerned
Most children who attempt suicide incorrectly assume that the world would be better off without them. Let them know how much yo and others care about them.

Openly listen to how they feel. Don't presume or tell them that they are no reason to fee so bad. help them to realize that problems they are experiencing today can be solved in the future.

Finally, and most importantly, you can not be expected to solve all of this child's problems. You must seek professional help if you believe a child is suicidal. In Belle Glade call 992-1330, or 992-1336. The vast majority of suicidal children would rather be happy than dead. With family/community support and professional intervention, future lives can be saved.

As we all grieve the loss of Jacqueline Lane, let us mobilize our sensitivity and efforts to ensure that such a tragedy is not repeated in the future.

Unfair!

"I went out the Marina Monday with my boss' son to get some autographs from the Atlanta Braves and it was quite an embarrassment the way Mike Miller and Mike Underwood and several others of the city cronies did all they could to get all the autographs they wanted from the Braves players yet when it was time for the kids to get autographs from the Braves players, they snuck them out the back door while 50 eager kids waited in line."

It seems like our tax dollars are going to waste when they're paying the bill to feed and let these guys go fishing while the police are working on the clock, getting autographs and making sure that the other kids don't get to meet players such as Deon Sanders."

First, Mike Miller responds:

"Let's get the facts straight.

1. The Belle Glade Police Department was there to provide security to celebrities who face constant harassment and danger (example: Nancy Kerrigan).

2. The only autograph Mike Miller got was for a small child whose name I do not know.

3. Every action that I, and the Belle Glade Police Department took was to facilitate the safety of the celebrities and to promote the ability of our young people to meet and greet the celebrities. The only player that I know of who left early was Deon Sanders. When I left the marina, there were still several players signing autographs for young children.

4. If the complainant had any self-respect, they would not have embarrassed their self with inaccurate information. Had they contacted me personally, I would have been most happy to discuss this issue with them.

Finally, I am pleased and proud to say that my son did aggressively, as many other young stars did, pursue autographs from his favorite baseball players."

Now we hear from Mike Underwood:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Unfair:

"In the past five years the City of Belle Glade has sponsored a fishing tournament for the Atlanta Braves with the help of J. Marks and Slim's Fish Camp and the five guides and volunteer guides from the City of Belle Glade. At no time have these gentlemen ever been paid for guiding during the tournament."

The fish fry after the tournament is fish caught and donated by campers of the Belle Glade Campground. A special thanks to Sonny Stein who for the past five years has volunteered his time to cook and provide free corn. All other cooking is done voluntarily by campers. (Nick Burger, Chester Hummes).

The city's agreement with the Braves is for them to come out and enjoy our lake. In return, if the players would like to sign autographs, we would appreciate it. Out of the 21 people who fished Monday only six were official Atlanta Braves baseball players. The other 15 were coaches, executive directors, Atlanta Braves professional medical team members, trainers, club house employees and Delta Airline V.P.

At Monday's fishing tournament, instead of people meeting the Braves at the pavilion after they ate, the players were swarmed by fans at Slim's during the weigh-in session which in the past four years has been for tournament members only. At this time players signed autographs and took pictures with the fans for at least 30 minutes.

Due to the confusion, there were a lot of players who felt like they had signed enough and went to the pavilion for the fish fry. At the pavilion a few of the players signed more autographs before the fish fry started. I, myself, requested that Michael Miller call for a couple of officers to keep people back until the Braves were done eating. So, if anybody was unfair, it was towards Michael Miller being requested to be the bad guy. The Braves players who went out the side door had nothing to do with Chief Miller and his staff. Those players leaving early had all signed autographs at Slim's and a few at the pavilion.

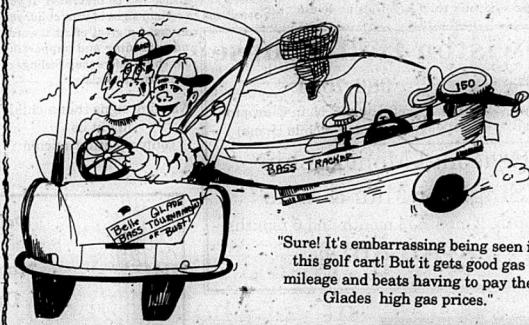

I apologize for the Braves fans who went to the pavilion as instructed and did not receive everyone's autograph, but I know for a fact that Jeff Blauser, a classic ball player, stayed and told me he would not leave until everyone who wanted an autograph got one.

Due to this tournament in Belle Glade we have had great players such as Phil Neikro, Bruce Sutler, Rick Camp, Steve Avery, Pete Smith, Jeff Blauser, John Smoltz, Deon Sanders, Greg Olson, Syd Bream, Damon Berryhill, just to name a few. In the past two years, all three major television networks from Atlanta have done specials relating to fishing in Belle Glade with the Atlanta Braves. Top farmers have written articles on the tournament, the latest one this year is coming out in a couple of weeks in "The Chop". The city feels this is some of the finest publicity we could receive to promote Belle Glade and the lake. I am very proud to be associated with the Braves and the fine people of this city who help put on this event and I could not say thank you enough for their help to make this a great day for the community and the kids.

I will close by saying that it is very unfair to give this tournament and the people who help run it a slap in the face for things they had no control over and then be able to put false statements in the paper without first calling or inquiring about a problem that could have been solved at the pavilion and until The Sun puts a stop to articles without people signing them and being proud to say what they have to say, situations like today will get blown out of proportion."

Health Care plan not favored by most senior citizens

Dear Editor:

As a member of the Seniors Coalition, I want you to know that most seniors do not favor the Clinton Health Care Plan.

Under the Clinton plan, senior citizens will surely face drastic cuts in Medicare coverage, lose their right to choose their own doctors, face long waiting lines, and possibly be denied life-saving medical treatment.

These matters are documented in a report available at no charge, from the 2 million member Seniors Coalition.

I urge you to contact the coalition today at (703) 273-5449, get a copy of their report, then stories that will alert people in our area to the real facts behind the Clinton Health Care Plan.

Thank you.

Chiles details "Unfair burden" of immigration's impact

Governor Lawton Chiles has released a comprehensive report that documents the cost of illegal immigration to Florida at $884 million annually. The report, prepared by the Office of Planning and Budget, details how state and local governments are burdened with the cost of providing services to foreign-born non-citizens.

For millions of people seeking a better life, arrival on American soil is a dream come true," said Gov. Chiles.

However, federal immigration policy has created a nightmare for state and local governments in Florida that are forced to shoulder the enormous burdens caused by that policy.

Gov. Chiles said it is the federal government's responsibility to set immigration policy and to enforce immigration laws. Consequently, he argued, the federal government should pay for the cost of implementing the policies -- or for the failure to enforce the laws.

In total, state experts estimate that Florida taxpayers pay more than $2.5 billion to provide services to both legal and illegal immigrants.

"Immigration is the exclusive domain of the federal government," said Gov. Chiles.

We do not have the ability or the authority to regulate our international borders. But, we do have the legal and practical responsibility for those refugees once they arrive.

This report, "The Unfair Burden," is the result of months of hard work by staff. It details how state and local governments in Florida have spent $884 million in 1993 to provide services like education and health care for undocumented immigrants.

Here's a partial breakdown of some of those costs.

* The Limited English Proficiency program alone cost state taxpayers more than $180 million in 1992-93.

* Health care and social services totalled more than $13 million.

* And, we spent nearly $28 million to arrest, prosecute and incarcerate criminal aliens.

In addition to the state costs, local governments -- as Dade County can attest -- spent an estimated $662 million.

In total, state and local governments spent more than $2.5 billion for both legal and illegal immigrants.

It's time for the federal government to acknowledge and accept its responsibility. We cannot pay for their failure any longer.

We are forwarding copies of this report to the Legislature, the Congressional Delegation, the Cabinet -- and all the way to President Clinton.

We know we're right. And we will pursue this issue through every branch of government -- at every level of government -- until the federal government does right by Florida.

Thank you.

Speak Out

A million dollar photo opportunity

"Thank you Atlanta Braves - Deon, Smoltz, Blower, Madlock, Bilecky and others."

A $100 million photo opportunity and many lucky young people even got autographs.

Thanks again Atlanta Braves, Mike Underwood, and the City of Belle Glade for making this opportunity possible."

From a child's view

"As a Little League baseball player in Belle Glade and an Atlanta Braves fan, I would like to thank Coach Underwood for giving us the chance to get autographs."

I also want to thank the Atlanta Braves for letting us both them on their day off."

Praise for Mike Underwood and Braves

"I want to say 'Thank You' to Mike Underwood and the Atlanta Braves."

The Atlanta Braves took time out of their rigorous spring training session to visit Belle Glade and to give our young people an opportunity to see them up close and talk to them and get some autographs.

They also enjoyed a day of fishing and fun.

But, I've been to Atlanta, and I've been to West Palm Beach, and in those two areas, your chances of seeing, talking to, less much less getting the autograph of one of these very famous people, are very remote.

So thanks to the Atlanta Braves for coming out and spending some time with us.

A special "Thank You" to Mike Underwood, who is truly dedicated to the young people of our community.

Without people such as Mike Underwood, Belle Glade would not be a very nice place to stay. He volunteers hundreds of hours to help run Little League programs, athletic events, put on special programs for our young people. We're fortunate to have him as a member of our community."

A dump at the drive in?

"I'd just like to know more about the old drive-in in Belle Glade. I understand that they're trying to make a city dump out of it."

I'd like the city to explain more in an article in your newspaper. This is a very concerned citizen. Thank you."

Editor's note: We spoke with Mark Hammond, management director for the Solid Waste Authority. He said the Solid Waste Authority is negotiating to move their facility from its present location on West Canal Street, Belle Glade to State Road 441 where currently Lake Drive In is located. Mr. Hammond said the matter will have to come before their board and then will be taken to the County Commission for approval.

He said the transfer station will be a totally enclosed facility and he feels residents should have no objection to the new site. He said any group who wishes to speak to him on the matter can call him at 407-640-4000.

Gas price monopoly

I am writing to complain about the outrageous gas prices we have here in the Glades. If Palm Beach County has the highest gas prices in the state then the gas stations in the Glades are the reason.

Gas prices are over 10 to 40 cents higher in the Glades than on the coast.

Why do the gas companies think we can afford to pay more for our gas?

I think it's because of lack of competition.

If you look into it, and you should, you would find out that one supplier of gas controls the gas supply in the Glades.

The city commissioners in the Glades should look into this and find a way to eliminate this unfair monopoly."

More on gas prices

I am writing to voice my opinion on Belle Glade's notoriously priced gas. I would think for a community of which it has been said experiences the lowest median income in the county, it would not be logical for this same community to be charged approximately 50-75 percent more for their gasoline. Now, I do understand that the oil companies that supply this area may have more overhead in doing so, but charging $1.75 for premium gasoline is nonsense.

These same companies understand that it would not be economically sound for patrons to drive 75 miles in a futile attempt to save money. It would totally defeat the purpose. This is precisely the reason they charge what they do.

I know this is not the first time this subject has been brought to the public's attention, but this will probably be the first time someone has presented these companies with a realistic alternative. First, gas companies can easily solve this problem by increasing the price of gas in the more incorporated areas of the county while decreasing, in direct proportion, the price of gas in the Glades. The gas companies would be much better off sucking their blood from the more well-to-do eastern section of the county than from those of us here in the Glades who can least afford it. So, the next time you're standing at the pump, keep your wooden stake ready.

Hooray, Hooray!

Hooray, hooray, school's out today! Spring break is here for all of us kids. The teachers have to wait until tomorrow as they are busy today figuring the third nine weeks grades, for better or worse. Nevertheless, we're all expected to report back on Monday, April 11, rested and ready to finish the 1993-94 school year with style and courage. Right! Meanwhile, enjoy Spring and Happy Easter!

Athletics

Last Friday the Raiders Baseball Team caught its first victory in a rough season over Pahokee 9-2. Lazaro Rodriguez had a particularly good game with two home runs. Coach Jim Reynolds is proud of his team because much of their competition play baseball year round, yet they never give up. Assistant Coach Dailey also admits some team members make a few errors but he truly praises the team on its loyalty and continued effort.

The Raiders boys and girls track teams participated in the Florida Relays last weekend in Gainesville. Shundra Smith, Yvonne Joachim and Fred Taylor had particularly good showings.

Students of the Week

For the week ending March 25, the following students were recognized for their contributions to the school:

Seniors - Chavayea Shannon and Beth Buchanan; Juniors - Bob Mills and Lyriande Joseph; Sophomores - Krisna Brisco and Justina Palmer; and, Freshmen - Jose Xavier Meza and Griselda Ortega.

GTATS and CTBS

Immediately upon students' return, the sophomore class faces the GTAT (Grade Ten Assessment Test), a test that checks on individual's math and English skills such as constructing factual, inferential and evaluative meanings. It also includes numeration theory, arithmetic, algebraic and geometric operations and procedures, and a touch of probability, statistics and reasoning. Those heavy terms are straight from the district's assistant superintendent Harvey Goldman, division of research and information services. Good luck sophomores. The testing begins April 12 and will be supervised by Lavoise Smith, chairman of the guidance department.

The next week, freshmen undergo a similar trial with the CTBS (California Test of Basic Skills) which tests very similar skills as the GTAT, only in a different format. And, who said high school was some of the best years of their lives?

Empty Bowls Project

Recently Cornelia Johnston's

ceramic classes contributed their efforts to the Empty Bowls Project sponsored by the Junior League of the Palm Beaches. The project, designed to help the homeless and the hungry, asked patrons to make a donation while being served soup in a disposable soup bowl. Each patron then could select a ceramic "party" bowl from the collection.

Ma. Johnston's students crafted and donated 100 bowls to this service and charity project. GCHCS recognizes and thanks Ma. Johnston and her students for their contribution.
